Social Programme

19:00 Welcome Reception (free admittance)

Largo do Paço (University Rectorate Building)
The Etaps Organization invites all ETAPS participants to the welcome reception.

Largo do Paço

The University of Minho's Rectorate and Central Administration services are located at the Paço Square, in a palace that used to be the archbishops' official residence. This palace has a long record of successive constructions and renovations, leading to a complex building incorporating the Gothic, mannerist and baroque styles.

The oldest wing is that facing Saint Barbara's Gardens, which was built by archbishop Gonçalo Pereira in the 14c. The inner part of the eastern wing is due to archbishop Manuel de Sousa (1544-1549) and the southern wing was built at the time of archbishop Agostinho de Jesus (1587-1609).

The plant of the building in the 16c can be seen on the map of Braunio (1597) depicted below. The Paço is the quadrangular red-roofed building close to the cathedral.

The beautiful fountain at the center of the main square is known as the Castle Fountain (1723) and has become a spot for students entertainment, when they push down into the fountain the new students at the beginning of the school year, as part of a tradition called praxe. Finally, the block facing the Council Square is baroque in style and was the initiative of archbishop José de Bragança, a natural son of the Portuguese king John V. This building currently hosts the Braga Public Library and the Braga District Archives, which are regarded by medieval history specialists as the second most relevant in the country, after the Tombo Tower Archives in Lisbon.

There are lively records of a busy life at the Paço in the 17th and 18th centuries, either crowded with clergymen dealing with matters concerning their parishes or animated with parties, music and games, often open to the public.

Suggested Cultural Activities for March 26

Exhibition on the life of the Portuguese writer Miguel Torga.

Miguel Torga, pseudonym of Adolfo Correia Rocha (São Martinho de Anta, Portugal, August 12, 1907- Coimbra, January 17, 1995) was one of the greatest Portuguese writers of the 20th century. He wrote poetry, short stories, theater and a 16 volume diary.

He was a member of the literary movement Presença for a short period before founding two cultural magazines in the 1930's. After the value of his work was being recognized, he went on to receive several awards, as the Prémio Camões in 1989 and the Montaigne award in 1981.

His work deals mainly with the nobility of the human condition in a beautiful but ruthless world where God is nothing but a passive and silent, indifferent creator.

Organised by the public library of Braga, the exhibition is presented at the university rectorate at Largo do Paço (main foyer). It will be shown until the end of the month, Monday to Friday from 9:00 to 12:30 and 14:00 to 17:30.
